PERTH FORUM 2017 – BUSINESS LEADERS

Australian Business Co-Chair

Mr Andrew Forrest AO

Chairman, Fortescue Metals Group; Chairman and Founder, Walk Free Foundation

Mr Andrew Forrest is a leading Australian philanthropist and businessman, who founded the Fortescue Metals Group (FMG), which has become one of the world's largest iron ore companies. In 2011 he stepped down as CEO of FMG, becoming Chairman, so he could focus on philanthropic work through the Munderoo Foundation, which he established with his wife in 2001. The Foundation strives for sustainable improvement through six core areas: GenerationOne, ending Indigenous disparity through education, training and employment; the Walk Free Foundation, working with governments, business and faiths to end slavery; the Forrest Research Foundation, supporting world-class higher education and innovation; Thrive by Five, addressing early childhood development; Eliminate Cancer Initiative, making cancer non-lethal for the next generation; and philanthropic partnerships, in particular focused on supporting the arts and enriching communities.

One of his proudest achievements is facilitating the coming together of the world's major faith and spiritual leaders, in 2014, 2015 and 2017, to produce a global religious proclamation against modern slavery.

Andrew is the first Australasian signatory for the Giving Pledge, committing to give away the overwhelming majority of his wealth. He has been awarded numerous lifetime achievement awards, including Business Leader of the Year at the Australian Institute of Management Western Australia Pinnacle Awards (2014) and an honorary doctorate by The University of Western Australia for outstanding service to the community, to his nation and beyond. Andrew was named the 2017 Australian of the Year for Western Australia, and the 2017 Western Australian of the year. He is an Officer of the Order of Australia.
